

TO THE PUBLIC.

The subject of this communication I know cannot be an agreeable one to the community from the disgust with which I undertake to reply to the notice that came out in the "Boon's Lick Times" of the 5th inst., under the signatures of Wm. H. Dulany and S. Carroll.

With the former of these gentlemen, I have nothing more to do—our accounts are settled—entirely to my satisfaction—and but for the mendacious impudence of the latter, I should have been at quits with him.

"Whom God wishes to destroy, he first makes mad"—this is a Latin adage which for Mr. Carroll's benefit I have rendered into plain English—though whether he can comprehend the applicability of it to his own case, even in his vernacular tongue, I am a little doubtful.

Is it possible he is such a blockhead as to suppose the citizens of this county, who have been so unfortunate as to have formed his acquaintance, are at all ignorant of his standing before and since his arrival among them, when he turns up his nose with such dignified disgust at me? Or is this but a display of a specially worked up man so mad as to suppose that his numerous and infamous violations of the confidence of his employers (passim) should be forgotten by his old acquaintances in Virginia? Many of whom, fortunately for me—but unfortunately for him, are at hand to testify to his villainy; and even if there had not been, does he foolishly imagine that the hundred or so of good fellows who would have gone before or speedily followed in his wake? He wishes to impress it upon the good citizens who may have perused his production that I was "dismissed from his employment." This he knows to be an infamous and base falsehood. I was not in his employment; never have been and thank God never expect to be. He had no employment to give me, unless I chose to be a deputy cheat, a common swindler, blackguard and drunkard, all of which honorable occupations he so fully discharges himself that I think he does not require an assistant in them. I was employed by his brother John—a gentleman whom all respect that know him—at the request of my relation, Mr. Agnew, of New York, who, at one time, contemplated engaging Mr. J. Carroll to put 300 hinds of tobacco for him, but subsequently declined doing so, and it is true, as S. Carroll states, that I did not see his brother previous to my arrival in Missouri. I was not "pained off" upon him, however, because my relation required no such arts to get me into employment; he was desirous I should obtain a knowledge of the tobacco business, with a view of establishing a house in that line in this State some time as subsequent time. As soon as S. Carroll, who I will here state is not the man of business of the concern, but merely a kind of agent to attend to the purchasing of tobacco, feeling the hands &c., learned that his brother was not to receive the order of Mr. Agnew, his conduct towards me changed and since that time has been characterized by the petty malice and duplicity of which he is so well capable.

When his brother was about to leave for New York, I was fearful of some difficulty with him, and applied to know what duties I had to perform, which were explicit and simple; I was also informed that I was not to account to him, and was to have nothing to do with him except at his table; and though he accuses me of laziness and neglect of business since the warm weather commenced, and this charge is evidently thrown in as some palliation for his infamous conduct towards me as well as for the purpose of injuring my prospects, I hardly think, degraded and unprincipled as he is, he will venture to say that I did not lately do nearly double the work of any other man that was ever employed in his brother's factory.

I should have left the premises long before I did, but that I did not, as I have stated, consider myself in his employment, but in that of his brother, Mr. John Carroll, who always treated me as a gentleman and seemed to look to me in some measure for the protection of his interests during his absence. He never dismissed me I repeat again, and not until I had visited upon him the wrath he had laid up for himself, by the course he took against me, in Dulany's prosecution—not until he had fled into the sanctuary of his wife's bed chamber for the safety of his person, which I never contemplated violating—did I deem it quit the premises and then voluntarily. Let him deny it, if he dares, and I will doubly stamp him liar.

He wishes to sneer off under the miserable subterfuge that he was never an inhabitant of Salem, Va. I acknowledge that in this particular I was incorrectly informed. It was in the town of Fincastle he figured, in the same county with Salem, at least was at the time of his leaving there "between two sons," but subsequently the county of Roanoke has been stricken off from it. He seems to require minute and if he desires any more of them, he has but to ask and he will receive. I have rich treasures in store if he provokes me again, and if he will but make it necessary for me to do so, I will stamp every particular I have charged upon him with the verdict of a Jury.

P. S. There is one more interrogatory I wish propounded to the gentleman (God save the mark) and am done—this is: Did you, or did you not, once visit the city of New York or Baltimore, for the purpose of purchasing goods for your employers in Fincastle, and while there purchase a lot of coffee which at that time was bearing a fine price in the city of Richmond, Va.? and did you, or did you not, give the note of a certain firm, payable at a certain date for said coffee, and did not shortly after your return the article of coffee fall greatly in value and your coffee consequently prove a left handed speculation, and was not the firm that you so kindly intended to enrich so ungrateful as to talk of remunerating you with a criminal prosecution when their note came round for payment? And was it not a remarkable coincidence that just about that time you were taken with a kind of a get-awayishness to North Carolina?

"I put for a reply." L. A. M.

In the Howard Circuit Court.
May Term, 1843
Haman B. Million, complainant, vs.
Eliza Jane Million, defendant.

NOW, at this day, comes the above named complainant, by his solicitor, and it appearing by the allegations in the bill of complaint, filed by said complainant against the said defendant, that on or about the first day of January, 1837, the said complainant, was joined in the bonds of matrimony with the said defendant, that they lived together as man and wife from that time till about the month of November, 1838, when the said Eliza Jane Million, without any cause or provocation whatever, abandoned herself from the bed and board of the said complainant against his will and consent, and has continued to remain away from him, ever since, that the said complainant treated the said defendant affectionately as a wife, and provided for her according to her state and condition, &c. And it further appears from the return of the Sheriff endorsed upon the Subpoena issued herein that the said defendant has not been served with process—and the Court satisfied that the said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri.

The prayer of the bill is, that the said defendant may be compelled to answer the complainant's bill in every particular, and that the complainant may be divorced from the bonds of matrimony by him heretofore contracted with the said defendant.

You the said Eliza Jane Million are therefore notified to appear on the first day of the next term of this Court, to be held at the Court house, in the town of Fayette, within and for the County of Howard, on the first Monday of December next, and answer the said bill, or the same will be taken for confessed. It is further ordered that this notice be published in some newspaper printed in the State of Missouri for eight weeks successively, the last insertion to be at least four weeks before the commencement of the next term of this Court.
